PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Damage wrought in Pennsylvania by the tropic-born rain-laden hurricane that ripped the Atlantic Seaboard was estimated in the millions today. At least four persons were killed and scores were injured. Only the western section of Pennsylvania remained unscathed as the Nor'easter pounded inland, past Harrisburg, Gettysburg and York where the fatalities were reported.

Heavy Crop Damage
Crop damage was expected to boost the loss to a staggering total; crop damage in Bucks county alone was estimated at $350,000 unless the storm subsides, the loss in this noted farming region may exceed $1,000,000.

Similar losses were reported in the great farming regions of Lancaster, York and Adams counties. Gov. Gifford Pinchot was forced to postpone a trip from Harrisburg to his estate at Millford because of the dangerous condition of the roads which brought motorized transportation to a standstill.

The Delaware and Schuylkill rivers overflowed their banks for the first time in years. Creeks were gorged to new high levels. At Norristown several factories (Continued On Page Two)

Wonder how many Lawrence county persons are attending the World's Fair in Chicago this summer, who also attended its predecessor, the world's fair of 1893. Write to Pa New, and let him know.

Secretary Hanson of the New Castle Motor club was justified in giving his warning that the road through Edinburg and Hillsville had been oiled, and it would be well for motorists to detour for a few days, Pa New discovered. The road has been given a heavy coating of oil, and until this soaks in, will be somewhat skiddy.

Buckwheat is being harvested on some farms in this locality, it is noted.

Add another queer license plate. Pa New saw one the other day bearing the inscription 110. He was unable to find out whether the owner could yodel or not.

Methodists from all over the New Castle district of the Erie conference of Methodist Episcopal churches to the number of two thousand assembled on the campus of Westminster College at New Wilmington Wednesday afternoon for a "Methodist Day" outing. THREE RUINED FAMILIES LEFT IN WAKE OF TRIPLE POISON DEATH MYSTERY

New Kensington Is Shocked
At Tragedy; Five Children Motherless

Believe Druggist Gave Poison As Result Of Frustrated Love Plans

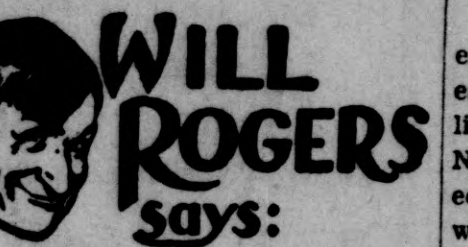

(International News Service)
NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Three wrecked families and five motherless children today remained in the wake of a triple poison death mystery which apparently was concocted in the warped mind of a mild-mannered druggist frustrated in his ambitions to become a great lover.

The victims of the amazing murder plot were Mrs. Dorothy Yunkers, pretty young mother of three children, Mrs. Della Grader, mother of two children, and Druggist Edward W. W. Kerr, fatherless, after seven years of married life.

Kerr gave Mrs. Yunkers poison capsules when she came to his drug store for relief from a headache. Then, he invited Mrs. Grader to a mythical party, gave her a dose of the same poison while riding with her along a lonely lane and completed the plot by committing suicide.

The druggist's own wife, Mrs. Margaret Kerr, was vacationing in Syracuse, N. Y.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 24.—As I look at this NRA, after having a long chat with the president about it, and Hugh Johnson, the chief executive, Secretary of Labor Miss Perkins, senators, well informed Washington writers, aeroplane pilots, taxi drivers, bell hops, steel men, oil men, and one lone optimistic bootlegger who still believed this country would soon see the error of its ways and return him back his stolen profession; now as I say I have asked all these about it (for once in my life I kept still and let them do the talking); now the doubt in the scheme is in proportion to the extra money that particular party would be asked to put on the scheme, and even each disagree-er hoped that it would work, but would prefer having it work without effecting him. Still many a big man was for it heart and soul.

BATTERED LINER MAKES NORFOLK PORT SAFELY

(International News Service)
NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 24.—Two members of her crew dead and two others injured, the steamer Madison of the eastern steamship lines limped into safety here at 4 a. m. (EDT) today after battling nearly 24 hours with one of the worst storms in years along the Atlantic seaboard.

Second mate Lycurgus Lawrence, of Norfolk, and quartermaster Edward Corbett were washed overboard by a tremendous wave which smashed the forward deck house as she wallowed helplessly in pounding seas off the Virginia capes. Capt. William Heath reported as the steamer docked here.

Two members of the crew, not immediately identified, were taken from the steamer suffering from leg fractures received when they went below to stow part of the cargo of 600 barrels of beer which had shifted in the hold as the steamer tossed on the angry sea.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The storm which has lashed the north Atlantic seaboard since Sunday will continue unabated in the metropolitan area this afternoon, according to weather bureau experts.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Dazed and battered under the hammering of terrific gales, smashing at the coast from Cape Hatteras to Boston since Sunday, the eastern seaboard today strove through crippled communications to determine full extent of the wrath of one of the worst storms in a quarter of a century.

Damage from winds of hurricane force and torrential rains which lashed the coastal region and thrust destructive fingers as far inland as the Appalachian mountains was estimated in the millions.

At least 20 persons were known dead in the storm area and thousands were homeless. Coastwise shipping was still paralyzed and air traffic was at a standstill. Communication facilities were disrupted over wide areas, coastal and inland communities from New Jersey to Virginia were without electric light or power, highways were blocked by rising waters and fallen trees and poles, summer colonies were washed out or marooned, and crops through (Continued From Page Ten)

Burglar Enters Four Homes In West Pittsburg

(Special To The News)
WEST PITTSBURG, Aug. 24.—Four homes were burglarized here last night by a daring robber who escaped after a narrow escape from capture by Constable Bannan and Jack Hainsworth. The burglar stole jewelry, silverware and clothing from three of the four homes he entered, it is reported.

He entered the residence of Sam Felice and escaped with a man's coat. Another home entered was that of Mrs. G. Benn, where he got a coat and an ebony box. The latter was recovered in the police yard. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hainsworth he stole a wrist watch, a gold watch, silver pie plate, pair of pants, and almost got captured.

After gathering up the stuff he went into the bedroom of Mrs. Hainsworth and his flashlight awakened her. She sounded the alarm and her husband and son awakened immediately. Constable Bannan and Jack Hainsworth chased the robber through the Hainsworth yard, but darkness gave good cover to the burglar, and he escaped.

STATE RELIEF FUNDS WILL BE REDUCED

Curtailment Of Work Is Nearing

September Allocation Will Be Reduced Below Previous Sums

RELIEF DEMANDS DROPPING SOME

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—Because the state treasury balance has dwindled to an almost negligible figure, relief work in Pennsylvania today faced a severe curtailment for September.

Members of the state emergency relief board agreed yesterday that September allocations, which will be made next week, must be reduced far below previous grants. A report submitted to the board by Eric Biddle, executive director, showed that while the number of families receiving aid decreased 10.1 per cent during July, expenditures dropped only 5.5 per cent.

July expenditures, both federal and state, for the care of 1,841,734 persons were $6,173,550 as compared with $6,509,954 spent during June for the care of 1,970,319 persons, Biddle said.

The board took no action on the proposed abolition of county relief boards except those composed entirely of professional welfare workers. It is expected this matter will be discussed next week.

Although the appointment of David Williams, Allentown, as director of the county relief board, was approved by a three to two vote of the board, Gov. Gifford Pinchot said he would not permit Williams to "handle federal funds," the governor, who has sole control over federal funds, voted with Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon against Williams.

After announcing his stand on the Williams appointment, the governor did not propose anyone to fill the vacancy on the Lehigh county board. Williams was dismissed at the beginning of the present administration as director of the industrial relations board in the department of labor and industry.

accompanied by wind was reported sweeping down from Lakes Erie and Ontario.

It took several days to clear away the debris left by the circus on the old Rosena furnace grounds. The work was just completed yesterday.

Judging from the number of players seen about local golf courses last evening, many of the dyed-in-the-wool adherents of the ancient Scotch pastime are anxious to get in as many rounds as they can while the weather remains favorable.

Several North street families took an interest in a starving cat the other day and gave it several "relief orders." Finally the little fellow was furnished with a comfortable box last evening in which to weather the rainstorm that was enroute. To the surprise of the benefactors, the cat took one look at the box, suspected a trap, walked off and hasn't been seen since.

Westminster college grounds looked like a county fair in progress yesterday. Here and there scattered all over the grounds were groups taking part in various programs, as the annual Methodist day was observed.

Pedestrians using the West Washington street bridge were switched over to the south sidewalk today while final repair work was being done at several points on the north side of the span. One way automobile traffic is still being enforced.

One of the chief topics of conversation downtown today is the present movement on foot for the construction of the Croton viaduct. Great interest is shown in the proposed project.

Three Ruined Families in Poison Mystery of the two women, police pieced together the frustrated love theory of the three deaths.

Fred Sprowell, the clerk, said he always had left the store when "pretty women" came as customers because he "felt that was the way Kerr wanted it." Sprowell said Kerr always kidded these attractive customers, particularly Mrs. Yunkers, who came frequently to the drug store for a soda.

The Kerrs and the Gradlers were neighbors and they often met at each others home for an evening of bridge or dancing. From Sprowell, police learned that one night recently when the two couples were at the Gradler home, Kerr and Mrs. Gradler spent the evening dancing while the others played cards.

Added information was obtained from Mrs. Elva Coudret, a sister of Mrs. Yunkers. She said Kerr had asked her to "fix it up for me" with Mrs. Yunkers. When Mrs. Coudret reminded Kerr her sister was married, Kerr, she said, replied:

"Nobody'll be wiser"

"Never mind. I'll give Dot and me both something so that nobody'll ever be the wiser."

He did just that when Mrs. Yunkers came to him and asked for something to relieve her headache. He gave her some capsules, filled with a white powder. Then, Kerr cleaned up the prescription room of his store, took some more capsules and went home. There he dressed himself and went to the Gradlers where he obtained permission to take Mrs. Gradler to "party" as a substitute for his own wife.

Their bodies were found slumped over in the seat of Kerr's auto yesterday, a few hours after Mrs. Yunkers had taken two of the capsules Kerr gave her and collapsed on a bed at her home.

The rest of the story of Kerr's recent life detailed in with the frustrated love theory, according to police. They said they had learned Kerr had been drinking lately and had taken to using narcotics. Despite his outward appearance of living a happy life, police said he felt "cheated" at love. His business was falling and he was being pressed for money.

Hubby—We have been married for 10 years now and we have never yet had an argument.

Friend—That's right. Let her have her own way. Never argue.

while Bill Turk and his tuba were right in the midst of the tunes. Fun and good fellowship prevailed throughout all the clowning.

Program Of Day
Neil Clark of Sharon presided at the piano during the afternoon program in the chapel and the prayer was offered by Rev. C. H. Frampton of Grove City; there was a song by the Webb-Elison quartet of West Middlesex and Rev. P. A. Galbreath of the Oakland church of Sharon led the group singing.

Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, head of Westminster, made a brief address of welcome and Rev. Homer Davis of Sharon gave the address of the afternoon.

A display of Brotherhood and Epworth League literature attracted the attention of the group, as did the various bulletin boards, one of which held a map of the New Castle district, showing the 33 churches and what ones had an Epworth League and a Brotherhood and the membership of each church. Another showed the Epworth League districts and sub-districts, with their cabinets and the Brotherhood had one of the same kind. A graph showing the enrollment of the Epworth leagues of the district and the Erie conference leagues by years since the founding in 1890, was most interesting.

Sports Of Day
W. S. Lewis and Ruth Buchanan of the Epworth church of New Castle were in charge of the sports program; L. E. Thompson, Grove City had mullsbull arrangements; Walter and Jimmie Shuler of Croton church, tennis; J. W. Anderson of the First church, New Castle, boys' races, assisted by Lee McComb, Raville; Ruth Buchanan, girls' races; D. W. Davis, Mahoning, horse shoes; swimming, J. H. McCormick and Evan Smith, Greenville; children's games, R. L. Meermans; prizes, which were silk ribbons with gold lettering, Milo Paden, these were made by the members of the Hillsville church.

Walter Shaffer of New Wilmington, was general chairman of the local arrangements.

The competition in the various sports was keen and the Forrester girls played a good mullsbull game against the Savannah girls, winning 23 to 12, the girls, in uniforms, made a nice appearance; the Sharon men's team won from West Middlesex 2 to 0.

Jimmie McCormick of Greenville won the tennis singles, and the doubles were won by White and Clark of New Wilmington; Alfred Glass and Arthur Williams of Hillsville won the 50 yard dash for boys 23 to 12, the girls, won by Virginia Young and Betty Keister of Highland Heights and Betty Keister of Highland Heights won the 50 yard dash for girls.

The swimming meet attracted a large group about the pool and the 50 yard free style winners were James Snyder of New Castle, first; Bill McClure, Mahoning, second; Mary McIntire, Sharon, first; and Mary Keister, Highland Heights, second; 50 yard back stroke, William Keister, Highland Heights, first; Bill Emery, Hillsville, second; Mary Keister, Highland Heights, first; and Mary McIntire, Sharon, second. The dog fashion race winners, Frank Ueber, first; Clark Reck, of Greenville, second; Betty Cole, of First church, New Castle, first; and Miss Holmes, New Wilmington, second. The diving contest winners, Bill Viegw, New Wilmington, first; James Snyder, New Castle, second; and James White of New Wilmington, third.

Evening Program
A basket picnic featured the dinner hour with Dr. Charles Wick and the Pulaski Epworth League in charge of the serving and V. O. Potter of Epworth church making the coffee. An elaborate menu issued from the baskets brought by the members as guests.

As darkness fell the entire campus was lighted up by flood light, arranged by Walter Shaffer of New Wilmington and W. G. Ayers of the First church, New Castle.

The outside service was in charge of Dr. L. S. Cass of Grove City, with Dr. P. A. Galbreath leading the singing and Ernest M. McGraw of the Epworth church in charge of the orchestra, which played throughout the evening.

The address was made by Dr. R. F. Galbreath, president of the college.

fall forced nearby streams to exceed their banks and inundate portions of the reservation. A chill wind swept the reservation, bringing orders for the installation of stoves in the tents so that the soldiers may dry their clothing.

Today's schedule of military maneuvers was cancelled after the regiment was recalled from a 24-hour troop reconnaissance problem late yesterday. Brig. Gen. E. J. Stackpole, Jr., issued the return orders because he feared a night in the drenched woodlands surrounding the camp might be perilous to the lives of many of the soldiers. Both men and horses showed great fatigue upon their return.

Because many of the roads leading to the reservation are flooded, officers are faced with delay in obtaining the necessary food supplies and warm clothing. Several tents, shattered by the high winds, also must be replaced.

It is likely that military pursuits will be suspended until the camp can be returned to normalcy.

The water reached the level of several high railroad bridges near Norristown.

Crack Chicago, Baltimore and Washington trains were delayed several hours by a washout on the Pennsylvania railroad lines near York.

In Philadelphia a total of 23,000 telephones were out of order at one time.

Residents were taken from their homes by rowboats when the lowlands in the tinicum section of the city were flooded.

The Philadelphia Electric Company recruited additional men from the Philadelphia gas works when its MWN repair crew proved inadequate in the teeth of a 90 mile-an-hour gale that ripped down telephone and electric wires in all sections.

Schools and churches at York were thrown open to care for the storm victims.

Landsowne was in darkness for several hours.

Sellersville was under six feet of water. Perkaskie also was inundated.

Roads throughout the entire eastern section were impassable in many places because of floods and washouts.

Almost 5,000 persons were homeless in Philadelphia when they were forced to flee flood waters invading their homes. An area of 10 square miles, mostly in southwest Philadelphia, was flooded, authorities reported.

Train service from the Baltimore & Ohio station was suspended when the rising Schuylkill river flooded the structure and tracks. The Pennsylvania and Reading railroad suspended ferry service between Philadelphia and Camden because of high water.

Mrs. Myrl Frankfather Amon. The sad news of the death of Mrs. Myrl Frankfather Amon, on Wednesday night at her home in Dallas, Texas, has been received by her mother, Mrs. Minnie B. Frankfather, Superior street.

She was the daughter of the late Fred L. Frankfather. She was also preceded in death by her daughter, Shirley, six years ago. Surviving her are her mother, one sister, Donna Frankfather at home, a half brother, William Emery, of Chestnut street, and her husband, Lloyd Amon.

Mrs. Joseph Myers. Word has been received in the city of the death of Mrs. Margaret McKeranah Myers, widow of Jos. Myers, who died Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Morris, at Grand Junction, Colorado.

Mrs. Myers was in her eighty-sixth year and was a former resident of the East Brook district, having come there with her parents when a small girl. She was married to Joseph Myers of Pittsburgh and resided there a number of years, later returning to East Brook.

After the death of her husband twelve years ago she went to Colorado to make her home with her daughters, Mrs. Morris and Mrs. A. L. Crist. She was a lifelong member of the Methodist church.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause of your down-and-out feeling in your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But if you're liver pills, ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resistant substitute, 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

NEW YORK'S KIDNAPPING LAW

HAVING given the most careful consideration to the subject, the New York Legislature has passed the bill providing drastic punishment for kidnapping, with the death penalty for persons convicted in cases where the victim is not returned alive. The present law is from ten to fifty years' imprisonment. Where the victim is returned alive the new law provides for imprisonment from twenty years to life.

In making kidnapping a capital crime New York is joining the procession of states which have determined to do all that is humanly possible to stamp out this odious crime. The public feeling in the matter was reflected in the tone and character of the debate. Assemblyman Cuvillier, for instance, in speaking in favor of the bill said that his only objection was that it did not go far enough. He rightly denounced kidnapping as the most atrocious and inhuman of crimes and said he would favor trial as by court-martial, before three judges, without a jury. "And," he concluded, "I would be in favor of lynching as the punishment."

By lynching he probably meant that he would dispense with the formal and semi-private executions that follow a conviction. But in combating this odious offense we must not permit ourselves to become hysterical. We can not use lawless methods in trying to make people respect the law cautions the Philadelphia Inquirer. The duty of the Legislature was to amend the existing law in a way that would discourage the crime at which it was aimed. The bill as passed seems to have done this in a satisfactory way.

It will be noticed that one of the original features of the bill was abandoned. That was the clause which made it a felony for any one, including relatives, to take part in negotiations for ransom or to act as intermediaries in the payment of ransom. Governor Lehman favored this, but the Legislature finally decided that it would not be feasible, since to induce a jury to convict a parent who had paid ransom money for his child would be next to impossible. But even in its present shape the law is a warning that should play some part in wiping out one of the most contemptible of crimes.

MAN NOT MERE MACHINE

A hopeful prospect for the coming generation is that it may not have to hear the exhortation, "Eat it; it's good for you." In the name of health education, dietetic fadists during the past decade have outlawed pretty nearly every food that our forebears favored, and have kept the conscientious constantly worried over the problem of opposing proper nourishment to the "sinful appetites of the flesh." And now, hopefully, the tide seems to be turning and common sense is coming to the rescue of the dietetically oppressed.

Recently one of the foremost medical authorities of the world told the British Medical Association that the "scientific truth about all this diet business is to eat moderately, taking ordinary mixed diet and don't worry about anything."

At Colgate University the coming semester research is to be directed toward finding if there may not be direct benefit from eating, not what may be academically determined to be good for one, but according to the individual's natural taste. Dr. Donald A. Laird, of the department of psychology in that institution, will have change and in the advance statement of his course says:

"There has been a tendency in diet work for the past decade to treat man as a purely chemical machine working on calories, vitamins, minerals, carbohydrates, etc. Taste, odor, and appearance of food have been largely neglected, and it is these which will occupy our attention. Authorities recognize that the process of digestion is directly influenced by the psychological factors as well as by the chemical constituents of the food eaten, and the eater's whole temperament may be affected by good or bad digestion."

LOOKING TO THE SOUTH

Ever since our delegates escaped from the London conference without losing their diplomatic shirts, we have had reports of growing resentment against the United States. European nations are always so when Uncle Sam does not sacrifice some of his assets for the sake of building up the continent across the Atlantic. One of the rumors has been that there might be a trade combination against us.

Although this is somewhat far-fetched as yet, the government at Washington has apparently started a counter-movement in the shape of a proposal for closer trade association between the United States and the countries of Latin America. Regardless of whether there is danger of a trade combination against us in Europe or not, it is highly desirable that we cultivate closer relationships with South America. Former President Hoover recognized this when he made his trip around South America prior to his inauguration. The depression which came later, of course, postponed the possibility of immediate trade development with Latin-America on a large scale.

But now that the subject can be taken up again it is to be hoped that the administration will not overlook the desire of more trade with Latin-America. With few exceptions the nations to the south of us produce goods which we can take duty free, because we do not produce them at home and no American labor is thrown out of work by importing them. The few exceptions include the meat and grain products of Argentina and oil from Venezuela.

So there is abundant field for the improvement of our trade relations with Latin-America. Let us not neglect the opportunity. As the Cincinnati Enquirer well says:

"Latin America offers many opportunities. We are the most important customer of three-fourths of the states of Latin America. The greater part of their exports to the United States enter free of duty, being staples such as coffee, tin, bananas and the like, which do not compete with domestic production. There is a large market in Latin America, which depends largely on the rise of world prices for basic commodities. That alone will improve the purchasing power of those countries."

"A few facts stand out plainly. The international conference will not accomplish our purposes. Quiet conversations between two nations at a time can do far more to free commerce from its restrictions. Reckless lending to Latin American states does not represent a real increase of their purchasing power. As we accept more of their goods at higher prices, they are able to take more of our exports. But lending them money with which to buy from us, save in special cases, is not a sound procedure."

All Of Us

BY MARSHALL MASLIN

CAN YOU EXPLAIN IT?

I had a dream and it mystified me and I cannot explain it. It doesn't make any sense at all, and I can't seem to get it out of my mind. Perhaps you can pick two and two out of it somehow and add them to a four. I can't.

In this dream, suddenly, I found myself in the power of five gangsters. I was walking along the street at night and a big black car drew up to the curb and these gangsters stepped out, stuck short automatics into my ribs and told me to come along—The Chief wanted me.

It was flattering to have five gangsters pick me up, but not exactly pleasant. They didn't seem very human, those little pale fellows with lizard eyes, who never smiled once. . . . It was hardly likely that I could appeal to them with any story of my wife and my children and how much my creditors would miss me. In fact, I didn't even think of appealing to their "better natures." I went along.

The next thing I remembered is being in a big field far from town, facing The Chief. . . . And The Chief was an old acquaintance of mine. A nice, mild gentleman of courtesy and sweetness, who never used any of those words you find in modern plays. . . . A friend of mine, whom I liked and respected. . . . But there he sat on a big boulder, looking grimly at me, mercilessly at Marshall Maslin, and telling me that my last moment had come. . . . I didn't like his looks at all. . . . My next memory is of losing my temper and hitting him a good smack on the jaw. . . . And the last memory is hearing him tell his pale-faced playmates to take me over the hill and bump me off. . . . That's where the dream ended.

So I suppose I'm dead. No saving mirror happened. They took me over the hill and wiped me out. My wife and children are wondering what happened to me, my body's lying out there in the field, still and cold, and that diabolic friend of mine is going about his business, mild and gentlemanly and unsuspecting of his incredible villainy. . . . Even he doesn't know that he's The Chief. I saw him yesterday and I could see he didn't have the slightest suspicion of the desperate career he lived in my dream.

And I want to know why. I want to know why I picked on him of all people, to be villain of my dream. I want to know if I have some long-rankling grudge against that fine soul. I want to know if I'm envious of him, or what it is that made me dream that dream. . . . I want to know, but I suppose I never shall. And he's the one person I'll never tell about that crazy dream.

HE WON'T WORK

Since he was a boy of seven Thomas O. Whitlock, eighty-three, now of Salt Lake City, Utah, has been a homeless drifter. He expects to continue his hobo life at least twenty years more.

He boasts that in forty-three years he has not done a day's work and yet has never gone hungry. But he doesn't advise any man to become a tramp. He especially urges boys to "get off the road," for it does not take long to form a habit from which they can never break away.

The only other advice he offers out of his long experience is, "never lend money to relatives."

A CITY HABIT

The man from the small village wonders why people in metropolitan centers seem to be in such a hurry. Unless he has worked in the city at some time he cannot realize how much faster people work in the larger places.

They may not work so many hours but they accomplish more. And without doubt most of them travel from one to two hours both morning and evening to get to their working place.

Everyone is in a hurry; even walking becomes a "wilt pace" of necessity, walking for pleasure or of necessity. Men and women seem to be rushing hither and thither, and in a headless manner.

Pedestrians are not unlike many drivers of automobiles who speed along with no other object than to get the thrills which come from speeding.

No thought of the jeopardy in which they place those who cross the thoroughfares, and who may be caught between curbs by the changing signal light.

"Headless, thoughtless America!" says one writer. He is not far from right. But there is much needless rushing on the part of pedestrians, it is a habit the city establishes.

Government Is Expected To Aid In Establishing Efficient Rule, While Problems Of Old Animosities Is Viewed As Peril

Americans and Cubans are declared by the American press to have a common interest in measures that may be taken to establish order in the island under the provisional government. Some doubt is expressed as to the possibility that the new leaders will be able to create at once the best possible conditions but friendly eyes are directed toward Cuba, as the prodigious task is undertaken. It is recognized that political exiles will return in large number, and there is some fear that factional animosities may survive the overturn of Machado.

"Cuba has blown off the lid, and the pieces of that lid are still falling," says the OAKLAND TRIBUNE offering a query as to the prospect under the new president. That paper adds that "time will be needed, and the patience of those who have recently been excited may be taxed." THE COLUMBIA (S. C.) STATE looks to the influence of Gen. Mario G. Menocal, former leader, who has returned to his people from Florida, to calm the citizens. The State also emphasizes the fact that "President Roosevelt is now considering the urgent economic problems of the Cubans."

"The role played by American statescraft in Cuba's deliverance from the Machado regime," thinks the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM "is one to give satisfaction to all shades of opinion in this country. Washington brought to bear the necessary pressure to bring about Machado's retirement and to prepare against his going."

Notables Born This Date—William Wilberforce, a 1759, philanthropist and reformer. When 29 a serious-minded scion of wealth, he began a 10-year struggle to end England's slave trade, extended his efforts to abolition of slavery all over the world. He died in 1833. b. 1847, distinguished American architect. He rebuilt the White House, in 1906. She outlived three of her eight children, four of her grand-children, was half-paralyzed and blind in her last years. When greatness came to her family she was kept busy trying to keep peace between her sons, daughters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law, for that brought nothing but discord and jealousy. When Napoleon was at the height of power, she confided in a servant. "The happy days gone by," they all say I am the happiest of mothers. In truth I am always full of worry," and thrifly continued to lay aside money against the day when disaster would arrive.

1752—Dowager Queen Catherine Medici of France and her 21-year-old weak-minded son, Charles IX, (three of her sons were kings of France) caused the massacre of 70,000 Huguenots (Protestants) in Paris on St. Bartholomew's Day during the celebration of the marriage of Charles' sister to a Protestant prince. (This is not the greatest religious massacre. 1,100,000 Jews are said to have been put to the sword after the destruction of Jerusalem by Titus, Roman general.)

1814—The British, having defeated the Americans in the battle of Bladensburg, Md., invaded Washington, burned the President's mansion. After reconstruction it became known, because of the color applied to cover seared walls, as the White House.

1862—Rafael Semmes became commander of the Confederate ship Alabama (built, ironically, in Great Britain) in the Azores Islands, began raids which resulted in capture of 70 vessels, $6,000,000 damage and controversies between the U. S. and British governments which eventually led to payment (in 1885) of $16,145,830 indemnification to the latter. (Foreign governments acting in one of the first modern instances of international arbitration, made the award.) Semmes' exploits rank with the greatest of American naval achievements.

1921—The dirigible R-38, on a final test trip before being turned over to the U. S. navy by its British builders, broke up over Hull, England, killing 44, of whom 17 were Americans.

1819—Fort Snelling established in what is now Minnesota. This was the first military outpost of the U. S. in the Northwest.

Roosevelt Awaits Completed Code Of Coal Industry

Remains At Home At Hyde

Cuban Situation

(International News Service)
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 24.—President Roosevelt today awaited submission of a completed fair competition code for the coal industry and studied progress of the national recovery administration.

The president was assured when he left Washington on Saturday night that Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson would bend every effort toward completion of the code for the troublesome coal industry, and he expected word from the capital some time today that it had been worked out in detail.

The president spent his time going over correspondence and looking over reports from Washington. He directed Secretary of State Hull to report all information regarding the Cuban situation, viewed as smoothing itself out.

Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin and Mrs. Woodin were expected as house guests overnight.

West Candidate For Controller

South Side Business Man Announces For Republican Nomination Today

DAVE WEST

Dave West, of Waldo street, today announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for City Controller. Mr. West formerly conducted a mercantile establishment on Long avenue and was associated in the mercantile field for many years prior to that. His announcement follows:

"It is not my purpose to make any lengthy statement as many of my friends are aware of the fact that I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for City Controller. For the past 37 years I have been a resident, a property owner and a taxpayer in New Castle and my life here has been spent in the field of business and finance. Much has been said by other candidates as to the details of the office of city controller and the qualifications necessary to it. It occurs to me that the first essential for holding the office of City Controller is sound business judgment. The controller should truly represent the people. While it is true that the office is not an executive one, yet if elected I would feel it a duty to co-operate with the executive branch of the city government towards the end that the public might be better served and expenses lessened.

"I am not backed by any organization and if elected will have no clique or faction to dictate my policies. I pledge myself to act at all times in the best interests of the taxpayers, remembering that the office is for the service of the people and that the office holder is their servant.

"If my candidacy meets with the approval of the Republican voters, I will appreciate their support on September 19."

Says Industries Must Not Qualify Clause On Labor, In Codes

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Conflicts between industry and organized labor in the carrying out of codes of fair competition will be transferred to the courts, under a ruling laid down today.

Interpretation of the famous section 7 of the recovery act—which guarantees the right of collective bargaining—was issued in an effort to settle the dispute among employers and spokesmen for labor over its future effect.

No NRA Control.
The recovery administration, in effect, took itself out of the role of a policeman in behalf of labor, and at the same time notified employers that open shop commitments will be barred in all codes.

Explaining that the NRA will not attempt to control the labor relations, but indirectly transferring the matter of enforcement to the courts, the ruling said:

"If there is any dispute in a particular case over who are the representatives of the employees of their own choosing, the NRA will offer its services to conduct an impartial investigation and, if necessary, a secret ballot to settle the question."

"The NRA will not undertake in any instance to decide that a particular contract should be made, or should not be made between lawful representatives of employees and employers; or to decide that a contract which has been lawfully made should not be enforced."

Expect Showdown.
With the union labor question being raised in the formation of codes for both the coal and automobile industries, the ruling was expected to bring a showdown with both industry and labor.

National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson joined with General Counsel Donald R. Richberg in issuing the "final" word in the labor fight which has seethed in the writing of codes for virtually all of the big industries.

Johnson's decision to make the statement followed days of unsuccessful negotiation with coal operators and was opposed by the labor advisory board. An open break in the recovery administration was averted only when Johnson collaborated with Richberg, long known as a labor lawyer.

The immediate effect was to forecast summary rejection of the latest labor proposal of the automobile industry, which proposed to write into its code a provision stating that employers may operate under an open shop policy.

Not In NRA Dictionary.
"The words 'open shop' and 'closed shop' are not used in the law and cannot be written into the law," said Johnson. "These words have no agreed meaning and will be erased from the dictionary of the NRA."

"The law requires in codes and agreements that 'employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing.'"

The statement came as the recovery administration was worried by reports of threatened new labor troubles. A report was received that 600 miners had gone on strike in eastern Pennsylvania and that there was danger of the entire labor truce being overthrown.

The miners, it was reported, were aroused over a rumor that spokesmen for the H. C. Frick Coke company had declared that the company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary, would never recognize the United Mine Workers of America.

Trouble signs also appeared from West Virginia, where union miners have been barred for years. The national labor board was urged to investigate claims that the United States Coal & Coke company, also a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, has black-listed miners for urging affiliation with the union.

The company informed the labor board that some employees had been discharged, but none because of union activities, and none had been evicted from miners' homes.

HAVE VISITORS FROM HOME SUNDAY

(By DON LANIGAN)

ASAPH, Pa., Aug. 23.—New Castle boys who are in camp 92, here recently enjoyed a real treat, when they saw a moving picture, right in camp. It was an educational film in seven reels. Five of the reels showed work which is being done in the Pennsylvania forests. The principal idea was to show the boys how easy a forest fire can be started through carelessness.

Everyone has been issued a new toilet kit. The fellows were happy when they received them, because they contained everything they needed, most of all the needless and thread.

Some of the boys captured a big rattlesnake on the limb of a tree, about 16 feet from the ground. This is the first time that the old timers ever remembered capturing a rattler that high from the ground.

Some of them also know how porcupine quills feel. They caught a porcupine while working on the road.

There were two visitors in camp over Sunday from New Castle, Miss Elizabeth Lindhart and Mike Mitchell. Miss Lindhart was visiting her brother, Tom.

Bill Vaughn, Joe Bumbuluc, Harry Brown, Roy Hammond, Bob Kelleher, and James Chill are studying astronomy. They stayed up all night on top of the mountain at the observation tower, watching the stars.

Some of the boys from Trout Run spent the week end visiting the boys in camp here. They were Byers, Lyons, Cutler, and Ward.

Young Tunney, the champion light heavyweight from camp 138, has challenged Merle Gibson. The fight will be held in two weeks, giving the boys an opportunity to do some training. There is more interest about this fight than a Tunney-Dempsey match. A police dog, cat, and crow has been added to the camp menagerie.

Police Threatened If They Do Not Give Some Service

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 24.—An ultimatum either to clean up vice and "rackets" on individual "beats" or face dismissal was issued to every member of the police department here last night, on orders of Mayor Mark E. Moore.

Mayor Moore's new attack is aimed, he said, at bootlegging places, "bookie" offices, lotteries and brothels.

"Heads of departments will be held equally responsible for the actions of their subordinates, and no act of insubordination or lack of law enforcement will be tolerated," the mayor's order read.

Old Account Book Shows High Prices

What It Cost To Buy The Necessaries Of Life At Harlansburg Store
In 1864

W. J. Eakin of Harlansburg has an account book of a store ran by his father in 1864. Inspection of the prices in those days shows that most commodities were higher at that time than at present.

There is a marked contrast in the price of wheat which is shown to have been selling at $1.90 a bushel, compared with about 88 cents at the present time. Coffee was also higher, retailing at 60 cents per pound. Sugar is another item that was high, the price being 30 cents per pound.

Some of the other prices were as follows: Calico, 27 cents per yard; tea, $2 a pound; syrup, 75 cents a gallon; flannel for shirts, $1.20 per yard; pair of coarse boots, $5.50; gingham, 60 cents a yard; butter, 22 to 35 cents a pound; eggs, 15 cents a dozen; cassimere, $2.25 a yard; muslin, 75 cents a yard; tallow, 15 cents a pound; buckwheat, 90 cents a bushel; corn in ears, 50 cents a bushel.

The prices at that time were what were called war prices, as it was toward the end of the Civil war. As would be seen by the figures, sugar

LAUNCH MOVE FOR OHIO RIVER FLOOD CONTROL

Seek Federal Fund For Work

Start Program At Conference In Pittsburgh On Wednesday Afternoon

NEED $55,000,000 TO COMPLETE JOB

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—Pledged to mobilization of their local civic and industrial forces in a campaign to advance a $55,000,000 project of flood control for the upper Ohio river valley, mayors and burgesses of over 100 tri-state municipalities returned home today from their conference with Mayor John S. Herron.

Nearly 200 delegates at the conference yesterday gave their unanimous approval of resolutions furthering the gigantic scheme and organizing an executive committee of eight to be known as the tri-state authority. Mayor Herron was designated president of the authority.

Seek Flood Control Work. The present movement is designed to bring concerted action by flood-affected localities in eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and northern West Virginia in urging the federal government to approve and undertake, as part of the $3,500,000,000 public works program, the flood control project submitted to the war department in 1929.

This plan, prepared by the Pittsburgh flood commission, is now being studied by U. S. army engineers here. It calls for the construction of a system of 10 storage reservoirs at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Major W. D. Styer, district engineer for the federal government, said he expected to forward his report on the Pittsburgh flood commission plan to Washington within a few days. The plan, he said, was the best for consideration at the present time. He was preceded on the program by George S. Davison, president of the flood commission, who outlined the history of the commission in the past 25 years of planning for flood relief. Davison, who was appointed a member of the "authority," said he hoped the U. S. army engineers were placed in charge of the project if approved.

His reasons for this were, he said, because the army engineers were thoroughly acquainted with the plan through past experience, and that they would be best qualified to supervise the operative system after completing.

Challenges Pennsylvania. Challenging the Pennsylvania representation to "get their well-earned share of the bacon," Secretary L. H. Gavin of the Upper Allegheny Improvement Association, said:

"I cannot understand why Pennsylvania taxpayers, the second largest contributors to the federal government, stand back and fail to claim their share of federal support. We stagger at the prospect of expending $50,000,000 to protect our industrial life when other sections of the country have asked for and received millions more."

The resolution pledging the delegates to contacting local groups and that creating the tri-state authority were introduced respectively, by Council President Harry A. Little and Councilman Frank L. Duggan. The delegates were in complete unanimity.

Other speakers were Mayor J. C. Martin of Fairmont, W. Va.; Mayor J. C. McMaster of Steubenville; E. K. Morris of the Pittsburgh Flood Commission; A. H. Burchfield, president of Joseph Horne Co.; and Eugene L. Connolly, who introduced Mayor Herron at the opening of the meeting.

Delegates appointed to the authority were Mayor J. E. Payne of Oil City, Pa.; Mayor J. Fred Thomas of Sharon, Pa.; Manager-Mayor Gordon P. Fought, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Mayor J. C. McMaster of Steubenville, O.; Mayor George H. Lysle, of McKeesport, Pa.; George S. Davison, president of the Pittsburgh flood commission; Chairman C. C. McGovern of the Allegheny county commissioners, and Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

State Secretary of Forests and Waters Lewis E. Staley and Gov. Gifford Pinchot were unable to attend.

Tax Scandal In Chicago Growing

Four Prominent Politicians
And Mayor Involved In Income Tax Scandals

SEVERAL CITIZENS
GROWING UNEASY

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—With four prominent politicians already involved—one of them the mayor of the city—Chicago's income tax scandal was "the talk of the town" today.

Everywhere the question was being raised: "Who next?" Those named to date in published stories are:

1.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

He admitted last week that he was compelled to make an income tax settlement by paying between $105,000 and $110,000 on income he failed to report for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928.

2.—Patrick A. Nash, Democratic boss of Chicago, and political and personal friend of Mayor Kelly.

Pay Many Thousands

It was charged yesterday that Nash paid $108,000 tax and penalty on unreported personal income and $77,000 on unreported income of the Nash Brothers Contracting firm, of which he is a partner. He refused to discuss the matter with reporters.

3.—Alderman Jacob M. Arvey, a leading cog in the Democratic machine in Chicago.

He admitted he made a compromise settlement of between $1,200 on $2,000 on his income tax for 1929.

4.—Former Alderman Barnett Hodges, now a member of the Illinois Tax Commission.

Hodges paid approximately $1,600 tax and penalty on his 1928 and 1929 income tax.

EASTERN COAST
AREAS COUNTING
HURRICANE TOLL

Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania suffered heavy damage.

Six of the known deaths were reported from Virginia. Three negroes were electrocuted by a falling electric wire at Portsmouth, and a negro boy was killed similarly at Suffolk. At Norfolk a white man was drowned while an unidentified negro woman was drowned at Buckner beach.

Deaths Reported.

At Newark, N. J., Jens Pedersen, 40, apartment house superintendent, was killed when he touched a fallen electric wire and his wife, Anna, was severely burned.

Two deaths were reported in Pennsylvania and at Dumont, N. J., Mrs. Anastasia Hansen, 45, was killed when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another in a blinding rain.

Scores of ships and small craft were wrecked or damaged but the number still is undetermined.

Norfolk and the communities about the Virginia capes sustained the heaviest damage, with a loss estimated at $6,000,000 at Norfolk, where flood waters swept the greater portion of the city. Ten were reported dead in this area.

Maryland's eastern shore was still without telephone communication today, with great damage reported in the narrow strip of land between the ocean and Chesapeake bay.

Summer colonists at Rehoboth Beach, Del., and at Ocean City and Salisbury, Md., were reported to have evacuated.

Sections of Baltimore and Washington in the vicinity of their waterfronts were under water as day broke, but the damage in these cities was nominal as compared to the damage along the ocean front.

Shenandoah Valley Hit.

The great apple and peach country of the Shenandoah valley was dealt a smashing blow by the high winds, and Winchester, Va., reported the ground covered with these fruit crops.

From the government meteorological station at Fort Monmouth, N. J., came an encouraging report that the storm, fostered by a nor-easter sweeping down from Newfoundland to merge with a hurricane, might blow itself out during the day.

The station reported the wind had shifted from northeast, its prevailing direction for four days, to due west and dropped suddenly in intensity. Another gradual shift to north-west was looked for this morning, indicating the storm would blow itself out within 24 hours.

From cities and towns along the seaboard came reports of millions of dollars damage inflicted by wind, rain and battering seas.

Maryland communities on the eastern shore were without communication facilities and the plight of many was uncertain. Salisbury, Md., about 22 miles inland, was reported in an unidentified amateur radio message to have been "wiped out" but extent of damage there could not be immediately learned.

Ocean City, Md., was strewn with wreckage and its beaches were awash under rising waters.

Sea Shore Resorts Hit.

Along the Jersey coast, every sea shore resort from Atlantic City to Cape May reported flooded streets, crippled light and power service and immense damage to summer homes, bathing cabins and shore structures. A 300-foot municipal pier at Cape May was smashed loose and carried off in the surf and a 90-foot radio mast at coast guard headquarters was carried away by the wind.

The famous steel pier at Atlantic City was boarded by surf and winds and the boardwalk was inundated by surf.

Fear was felt that the Barnegat light, on the Jersey coast, would be undermined by rollers which washed away jetties guarding its base and ate into the land side of the light station.

The New York area and the nearby New Jersey region escaped comparatively lightly. Drenched by rain, the metropolitan area missed the brunt of the gales although a stiff northeast wind tore down trees, blew in windows and interrupted telephone and light wires throughout Westchester, Long Island and northern New Jersey sections.

Save Ship Passengers.

At Lewes, Del., just above Rehoboth Beach, coastguards saved Judge Stanley H. Johnson of the Denver, Colo., juvenile court, his wife and daughter Phyllis, and two seamen from the yacht Dolphin, which was being pounded to pieces on the shore.

The coast guard cutter Modoc reported from Wilmington, N. C., that the steamer G. A. Kohler had been beached two miles south of the Gulf shore coast guard station, and nine men and a woman taken off by coast guardsmen. The Modoc also reported that the Diamond Shoals light ship had been swept six miles off its position by the storm.

A ferry operating between Morgantown, Md., and Colonial Beach, Va., was unable to land yesterday as the raging Potomac river tore away the pier. The ferry was carrying a bus with an undetermined number of passengers. Further reports of the ferry and bus passengers have not yet been received.

Three hangers and one airplane were destroyed, and two ships damaged when the storm struck Tred Avon airport, near Easton, Md., on the eastern shore.

Seven inches of rainfall was recorded by the weather bureau at Washington. The Washington airport was under three feet of water, and all roads along the Potomac river and its tributaries were closed to traffic because of the floods or resultant damage. Power plants in the suburbs were wrecked, making it necessary to bring power from Baltimore.

Police Hear Of Two Accidents

Mrs. Delsie A. Baird of Gary, Ind., reported to police Wednesday that she was en route west on Falls street and was making a left turn onto North Jefferson street after making a safety stop, when Jack Cole of 416 Galbreath avenue, en route north on North Jefferson street, hit and damaged her machine to some extent.

Miss Dorothy Blau of 136 Leasure avenue was en route north on South Mill street Wednesday near Market Way, as Loyal W. Eckert of 220 Garfield avenue pulled out from the curb and the machines came to both. Some damage was done to both.

HEARING HELD IN RUNG BEER CASE BEFORE CHAMBERS

buildings at Lakewood. There is a dancing pavilion, refreshment stand and a picnic building. He said that he had been to the grounds at least three times since the license was granted. He saw no tables or chairs in front of the stand, and had seen beer sold over the counter, or at least he had heard calls for beer and had seen bottles set out. He had not tasted what was in the bottles. He had never seen any beer served at the tables in the picnic building, which he estimated is about 75 feet from the refreshment stand.

Saw Beer Sold At Counter

Orville Michaels of East Brook estimated that the refreshment stand is about 10x25 feet. He had not seen any stools or chairs in front of the stand, but had seen three tables and about twelve chairs in a shed attached to the refreshment stand. He said the tables would seat about four people each. He had seen beer sold at the counter and had bought some.

Philip D. Shuler of Hickory township had seen no stools or chairs in front of the counter, but said that there was a movable bench. He had heard beer called for and had seen bottles set out on the counter.

Donald Dismore testified that he had gone out to look the place over at the request of County Treasurer Pitts. He found three tables and four chairs in the shed attached to the refreshment stand, but saw no stools or chairs in front of the counter. He had not noticed a bench. He had seen beer drunk at the tables.

Attorney Glenn Berry, representing the county treasurer, announced that this was all the testimony that would be offered.

Denies Charges.

Attorney Edwin Logan, representing Mrs. Rung, called John Rung, Jr., a son of Mrs. Rung. He testified that he had never sold any beer to Michaels over the counter, and that none had been sold to anybody over the counter, since the license was granted.

He said that food is served in the picnic building. It is equipped with 24 tables and 48 benches, and will seat around 500 people. There are three tables and a dozen chairs in the shed attached to the refreshment stand. In the period before regulations were fixed by the license, he said that beer had been sold over the counter, but none after the license went into effect.

B. J. Durkin, of this city, who is spending the summer at his Lakewood cottage, testified that he had seen people at the tables drinking what he presumed to be beer but had not seen any drinking beer at the counter.

Jack Mercovitch, of Cleveland, O., also a cottager at Lakewood, said that he had been around the picnic grounds every day for the past four weeks. He had seen people drinking at the tables but not at the counter.

Frank Rung, son of Hermine Rung, testified that no beer had been sold over the counter since the license went into effect. He had served meals at the tables in the picnic building and also beer at the tables. He estimated that from three to five cases of beer are sold a week. There are two stoves in the picnic building where meals are prepared when ordered. They are also used by the picnicers.

John Rung, Sr., also testified that no beer had been sold over the counter since the license went into effect.

P. J. Corfis had seen beer sold at the tables, but none at the counter. Joseph Rung, son of Hermine Rung, does not regularly clerk at the stand, but is around there in the evenings. He had never seen any beer sold over the counter.

This closed the testimony. Judge Chambers announced that he would hear arguments of the attorneys on next Monday, after the testimony is written out, after which he will hand down his decision.

The defense maintains that the tables in the picnic building are a part of the equipment of the place, while the other side takes the position that the required number of tables and chairs must be in the building for which application for license is made.

CROTON SERVICE STATION ROBBED

Robbers last night broke into the Croton service station of Merle Curran and Andrew Mack, 1129 Croton avenue, forced open the safe, secured a considerable amount of money and other valuables and made their getaway.

Discovery that the robbery occurred was made this morning, when an attendant arrived to open up the place for the day. The robbers secured $80 in cash from the safe, also ring and automobile papers of Andrew Mack and $2 from the cash drawer of the place. A cigarette machine was also broken open and the money taken from it.

Officers investigating found that the place had been closed last night by Jacob Sewald, an attendant. Everything was all right then.

A rear door was forced to gain entrance.

Women Golfers Stop Over-Night

Two prominent women golfers made The Castleton their stopping point last night on their auto trip through to the women's golf championships being held in the mid-west.

Miss Frances Williams, prominent Pennsylvania woman golfer of Allentown, Pa., and Miss Estella Drennar of Tulsa, Okla., were the two who stopped here. They left early this morning to continue their journey. Both were well pleased with the fine Castleton and the service rendered here.

When fans travel to the fair grounds here late in September they will see running races. They have had no such events in a score of years around here. There will also be trot and paces in the day and boxing and other features at night.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Primo Carnera, heavyweight champ of the world, strutted his size and speed last night at Youngstown and no one can deny he is big, well proportioned and faster than many of the 185-pounders who have tried to capture the heavyweight title. His stance and movements demonstrated that he can punch. His sparring partners' blows were picked off and at any time Carnera could have laid them low. But he didn't try. He was there for exhibition purposes and he pleased the crowd. He is a likable fellow. When he left the ring he was surrounded by an army of young chaps and he towered so far above the kiddies it reminded one of Gulliver and his Travels.

Andrew Mattis, the Johnstown, Pa. club pitcher, passed away from blood poisoning in a hospital in that city yesterday. He was 24 years old. Blood transfusions were made in the hope of saving his life. Poisoning resulted from extraction of a tooth.

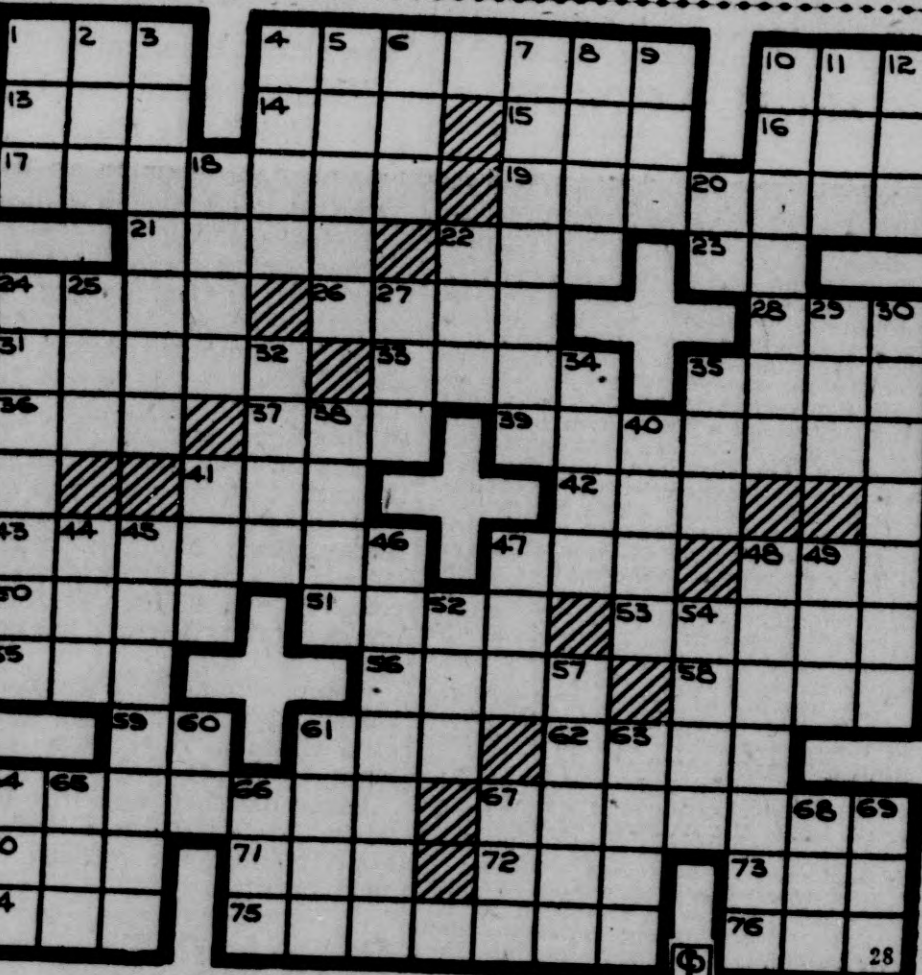

Ben White, veteran race driver, was spilled from his sulky during the Grand Circuit program at Springfield, Ill., yesterday. He was treated at a hospital for injuries. The 60-year-old reinsman drove Mary Reynolds to victory in the Hambletonian classic last week. Yesterday's accident occurred during the third heat of the 2:18 pace which was won by Miss Abbedale, driven by S. D. Shell.

EASE SLIGHTLY

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The stock market was a dull and apathetic affair today with the trend of prices irregularly lower.
Further weakness of the dollar was offset as a market influence by a continuation of the selling in wheat and corn where losses of more than a cent a bushel were recorded. Cotton also was slightly easier with losses running to about 25 cents a bale.

The selling in the list while quite general was not in volume and losses in the principal stocks were held to fractions.

United States Steel and the other steel issues maintained a firm tone in the face of the heaviness of the list and held around their previous close.

Motor shares continued to come into some profit-taking and eased slightly with General Motors and Chrysler slipping fractionally.

Ellwood City BoyFreight Train Crushes Leg Of Robert Conti, 13, At Campbell, Ohio

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 24.—A 13-year-old Ellwood City boy lost the use of his right leg yesterday afternoon at Campbell, O., where it was crushed by a freight train in an accident.

Robert Conti, the accident victim, is on the road to recovery following an operation in which his right leg was amputated at the Youngstown hospital, where he was brought at 2:30 p. m., E. S. T.

Details as to how the accident occurred were unavailable this morning, as police and hospital authorities could not question the lad.

At the time of the accident he was supposed to have been in the company of another Ellwood City boy, Albert Macioce, aged 16.

The older brother of Macioce came to the local police station yesterday to report that Albert had run away from home with young Conti, and requested their aid in locating them. Word came here early last night that the Conti boy was in the Youngstown hospital with an amputated leg. The lad was found alone, Macioce not being present there or when he was brought to the hospital. It is stated that the accident occurred while Conti was endeavoring to get off the moving freight train.

Empty Victory Ends Long Hike

Youth Travels 5,000 Miles To Pittsburgh In Fruitless Search

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24.—His 5,000 mile hike from Oregon into the east in search of a mother who didn't want him at an end, Charles McCullough, 19, today faced the bitterness of an empty victory. Hungry and tired, the boy told his story to attaches of the Missing Persons Bureau, and out of the past the bureau constructed an even stranger story that had an unhappy ending for the traveler.

It was nine years ago when Clarence first learned the Oregon family he was living with was not his own. He was playing outside the foster home when an automobile drew up beside him and a young woman called out:

"She is your mother!" He looked and saw a richly-dressed elderly woman in the car. And then, frightened, he ran home. There they told him his mother's name was Jane McCullough, and that she had left him there years before.

The Missing Persons Bureau learned from the files that back in 1924 a gray-haired woman died in a charity ward of the Allegheny General hospital, leaving a valuable estate with a local trust company as administrator.

The bitter ending of the boy's story that he was yet to learn today was that the woman who died in the charity ward was Mrs. Jane McCullough and that her estate had been disposed of to other relatives.

Wife—I can't understand my husband, doctor. I'm afraid there is something terribly wrong with him. Doctor—What are the symptoms?

Wife—Well, I often talk to him for half an hour at a time, and when I get through he hasn't the least idea what I have been saying.

Doctor—Don't worry any more about your husband. I wish I had his gift.

Clendening Issues Warning On Dangers Of Sleeping Sickness

DR. LOGAN CLENDENING

By LOGAN CLENDENING
Written for Central Press
SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 24.

The most serious intelligence the United States has had for 10 years in the field of health is the announcement of the outbreak of sleeping sickness in St. Louis. Sleeping sickness is a nickname that was given the disease when it appeared 15 years ago.

Like Tropic Disease The same name was given to the tropical disease found in Africa, caused by an animal parasite, the trypanosome. But this is entirely different from the St. Louis disease, the technical name of which is encephalitis lethargica.

When encephalitis appeared in the United States in 1918, following the terrific epidemic of flu, few physicians had ever seen an example. The first cases were regarded as mysteries because the patients fell into a coma to sleep and stayed that way indefinitely. Only when some of the older practitioners, who had known through other epidemics of influenza, recognized the malady was its nature known.

In association with influenza unquestionably an epidemic of the one is usually followed by the other. But where influenza affects mostly the respiratory system encephalitis affects the nervous system.

After death thousands of small areas of destruction are found at the base of the brain.

While gradual lethargy is the usual method of onset it is not always so. The early signs point definitely to the nervous system, however. Sometimes there is double vision, headaches, fever, stiffness of the neck. As opposed to lethargy, extreme excitement or restlessness may be the suspicious sign.

Death is frequent, but is not so terrible as some of the things that remain with those who get well. Death, indeed is to be preferred to the continual shaking palsy, the double vision, or the vertigo that are permanent residues of the infection. No cure is known. Isolation of the patients at the earliest possible moment is the only hope of preventing its spread.

Symptoms Physicians all over the country are undoubtedly on the alert to recognize the signs at the earliest possible moment, and in this the public can be of service.

The symptoms given above, lethargy, mania, double vision or stiffness in the neck with fever and headache, should be regarded with suspicion.

Fortunately, according to the experience of previous epidemics, the number of people susceptible is comparatively small.
